Eliza Teoh is the national bestselling author of the Ellie Belly series of children's books. She was a Singapore Press Holdings scholar and has worked as a journalist and sub-editor at The Straits Times and Today newspapers. A mother of two, Eliza's books are filled with fun animal facts as well as grammar and vocabulary tips. She writes children's books with the aim of making reading fun for reluctant readers. A committee member of the Speak Good English movement, Eliza was also a trainer for the Gifted Education Programme Creative Writing Programme in 2014.

- The Ellie Belly series is suitable for ages 6-12.
- Eliza is available for hall talks and small workshops.

Caline Tan was an English teacher with the Ministry of Education for 10 years. Even though she left teaching to spend more time with her children, she hopes to stay connected with children through her Robozonic series of children's books. Caline's concern for the environment comes through in her books, which contain a strong conservation message. Her books also contain "robodictor" bubbles which explain the difficult words in the story.

- The Robozonic series is suitable for ages 6-12.
- Caline is available for hall talks and small workshops.

Jessica Alejandro has been nominated twice for Singapore's most prestigious children's book prize - Hedwig Anuar Children's Book Award. Her Extraordinary Losers series of books features four misfits with special abilities who solve crimes in school. Formerly a curriculum writer for assessment book publishers, Jessica is now an educator in private practice. Her Extraordinary Losers series carries a strong anti-bullying message and there are ongoing discussions on adapting it into a television series.

- The Extraordinary Losers series is suitable for ages 9 and up.
- Jessica is available for small workshops and hall talks.

At the age of 15, Gabby Tye is one of Singapore's youngest novelists. Gabby's Young Adult trilogy which starts with Run, is inspired by The Enemy by Charles Higgins, Hunger Games by Suzanne Collins, as well as Lord of the Flies by William Golding. The trilogy is a modern-day take on Hansel and Gretel, tackling the themes of food shortage, genetically-modified crops, and the ethics of survival in a world where adults have abandoned their children in the desperate attempt to save themselves. The second book, HIDE, was released in 2014 and was extremely well-received. The movie rights to RunHideSeek have already been optioned to Woosh Pictures Pte Ltd.

- Suitable for ages 10 and up.
- Gabby is available for small group sharing sessions.

Andy Chua is a 3D Modeler and Texture Artist in an integrated engineering group based in Singapore that provides training solutions for militaries around the world. Tan Ter Cheah lost her right leg to synovial sarcoma at age six and her debut book ONE is based loosely on her memories of what happened and how she felt then. Trained as a lawyer, she later obtained her professional accountancy qualification while working full-time. She is currently working part-time in the area of tax. She hopes to share her love for words, as well as her life experiences, with children and adults alike.

- ONE is suitable for ages 10 and up.
- Ter Cheah is available for hall talks.

Amon Chua aka AMONster02 is obsessed with stuff few would expect of a 12-year-old – natural history, mythology, Tolkien and World War II. But he also loves to hang out with his mum and their favourite pastime is spinning stories together while playing tunes on Spotify. Amon is now furthering his education in the United States but is excited to share about his book with Singaporean kids during his summer break.

- The Ryan and Rex series is suitable for ages 9 and up.
- Amon is available for school talks July and August.

Best known for illustrating the national bestselling Ellie Belly series, David Liew (aka Wolfe) has also authored Nightmare on Eat Street, a humorous and fantastical tale about a bunch of misfits from another realm. A PSC scholar, David's talks will focus on how he draws on both word and image to get ideas across and feature live drawing demonstrations.

- Nightmare on Eat Street is suitable for ages 11 and up.
- David is available for school talks and workshops.
